

December 01, 2020

New York teacher receives award from American Bar Association

Share this:

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1, 2020 – The American Bar Association will honor longtime New York teacher David Scott with its Isidore Starr Award for Excellence in Law-Related Education. The award recognizes individuals for outstanding achievements in teaching about the law in elementary and secondary grades.

The Starr Award will be presented to Scott in a virtual ceremony on Dec. 16. He will also receive the Isidore Starr Award for Excellence in Law-Related Education from the American Bar Association, noted many wonderful educators who go the extra mile,” Tinker said in her nomination letter. “This year, I am proud to recommend one who really stands out.”

Earlier this year, Scott was lauded for converting a student mock trial program into a virtual format in a matter of days at the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic lockdown. Instead of a cancellation during an uncertain time, it became a bright spot of continued programming for his students.

To register for the ceremony, click here.

The ABA is the largest voluntary association of lawyers in the world. As the national voice of